Amsterdam Seminar

May 21, 2008

Tax Justice Netherlands is holding a seminar about corporate tax, development and transparency. It will take place on Wednesday, May 21, 2008 in Amsterdam.

The morning programme will focus on tax and development. The afternoon programme will focus on transparency of tax allocation and international tax planning.

The target audience are tax advisors and accountants; corporate social responsibility managers of multinationals; government officials and politicians; civil society representatives, and academics. The conference is open to the general public, but for the afternoon programme people with some degree of expertise on tax matters will benefit the most.

All sessions will be in a plenary setting, in English.

More information about the programme will soon be available on www.taxjustice.nl

For pre-registration, please send your name, position, and details about your organisation to: info@taxjustice.nl
